

DO YOUR RANCH ROADS HAVE RUTS ?

Farm & Ranch
ROADS WORKSHOP

To be held Cal Poly's Escuela Ranch
November 16, 2007
From 8:30 am-12:30 pm (Lunch Following)

Do your ranch roads have ruts?
Are they entrenched and impassable in winter?
Do you have gullies, clogged culverts or mud puddles?
Do you have to maintain them every year?

Coastal San Luis Resource Conservation District and Cal Poly State University are hosting a half-day workshop to introduce sustainable road design concepts. This workshop will include a short classroom session and then a field tour to look at ranch roads to discuss fixes to address problems. You will learn how to minimize erosion from roads to:

Recognize drainage issues before they become problems.
Reduce sediment in the creeks
Reduce construction costs
Reduce maintenance costs
Prevent gullies
Improve ride

We need your RSVP for lunch by November 12th, 2007. Please call Deb Barker @ (805) 805-772-4391 or email at dbarker@coastalrcd.org to RSVP. We will meet at the new Beef Unit on Escuela Ranch and carpool over to the demo site.

Sponsored by Coastal San Luis Resource Conservation District
And
The Animal Science Department
Cal Poly State University
San Luis Obispo, CA

This Project has received support through a grant from the California State Water Resources Control Board with funding from the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency under the Federal Nonpoint Source Pollution Control Program (Clean Water Act Section 319)