PROJECT PROGRESS AND UPDATES

During our report year 2023-2024, our team has had much progress on current ongoing projects along with new opportunities!

The Coastal San Luis RCD has partnered with three other Resource Conservation Districts and the Carbon Cycle Institute this year to launch the Central Coast Soil hub. Along with the Upper Salinas-Las Tablas RCD, Cachuma RCD, and Ventura County RCD we are now undertaking regional projects that support farmers, ranchers, and land managers across the tri-county region (San Luis Obispo, Santa Barbara and Ventura Counties).

THE CSLRCD CELEBRATES A NEW MILESTONE!

2024 brought the CSLRCD a new Milestone. Our team is excited and proud to be a part of this district, celebrating 70 amazing years of local conservation, resource management and climate resilience on our beautiful Central Coast!

Starting simply as a group of local landowners in 1953 as the Arroyo Grande RCD, it has grown to cover the HWY 41 corridor north of Morro Bay, all the way down the coastal valleys to the Nipomo Mesa and Oso Flaco Lake in the south.

Happy Holidays
